EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

EXDCI is pleased to announce an open call for HPC stakeholders (institutions, service providers, users, communities, vendors and consultants) to shape and contribute the ongoing European HPC Summit Week event series. This conference series started its first edition in 2016 with the organization of the European HPC Summit Week 2016 that was held in Prague, Czech Republic.

This document pretends to define all possible participants interested in including an event or workshop under the European HPC Summit Week 2017 that will take place 15 – 19th May 2017 at the Vertex Building, UPC North Campus in Barcelona. The procedure is to send an expression of interest to have an event/workshop and agree on a joint programme for this week.

1. INTRODUCTION

The overview of the past event of this week was the following one:

In its first edition, the full week included various events or workshops as well as other private meetings organized during the week.

The aim of the European HPC Summit Week series is to gather all related European initiatives and actors related to HPC in a single week. The idea is to gather the main HPC actors in a week in order to find synergies among all HPC initiatives. Ideally, its location should modify each year in Europe. An open tender will be launched to host this week each year.

Each individual event or workshop under this European HPC Summit Week should be in charge of their own agenda and assign a unique final responsible for EXDCI, as well as run their own costs (catering services, room, etc.). The week will count with a unique fee and registration form for all attendees and it pretends to cover the costs of the rooms, WIFI, registration desk, printing materials, etc.
